The Community Site

In 1980, the Veterans Multi-Service Center was created to assist veterans from the Vietnam War. They began by helping the veterans with access to VA benefits, employment opportunities, and learning how to adjust in society after returning home from war. Over time, the center expanded its program to assist veterans of all wars and conflicts. In 2000, they established a day service program called the Perimeter to help homeless veterans. This center provides them with breakfast and lunch along with a place to watch television and do other activities. They assist the veterans with transitional housing, offer them computer classes, and provide them with educational opportunities. The VMC also does a lot of outreach in the community and is dedicated to assisting veterans in need.

Objectives and Goals

• To motivate the veterans to eat healthier and exercise daily
• To challenge the veterans to quit smoking
• To teach the veterans how to alleviate their stress and anxiety
• To educate the veterans about heart disease
• To inform the veterans on how to budget effectively
• To explain the political process to the veterans including voting, elections, and potential candidates in the 2016 election

Personal Statements

“Every day at the Perimeter was unique, meaningful, and, at times, challenging. I greatly appreciate the veterans’ openness to sharing their experiences and willingness to pass on what they have learned from life. They’re the best!” – Olivia

“Being a part of Bridging the Gaps this summer has been an absolute privilege. It was a pleasure getting to know the veterans of the Perimeter and my experience over these past seven weeks has helped me to grow both professionally and emotionally. I have gained a newfound respect for the veteran community and have been blown away by their incredible resilience and positivity in the face of the many struggles they face on a daily basis.” – Max

“While at the Perimeter, I learned about the daily struggles faced by homeless veterans. I am now more aware of their needs which will be important for my career as a future physician. This has been a very humbling experience and a truly memorable summer.” – Alaynna
